

Declaration of Data Confidentiality/Protection

All information and results acquired from, or provided by, Nagra within the context of collaborative work with Nagra are, in principle, to be treated as confidential.

The signatory party undertakes in particular to refrain from using the subject-matter of contracts, as well as all written and electronic information and data, task descriptions, raw data, drafts, diagrams and IT data as well as all other technical or geological data acquired in the course of collaborative work for external purposes and from making these available to third parties. For any such transmission or publication, explicit prior written permission has to be obtained from Nagra.

No specific exploitable information on the progress of work or on existing and expected results may be made available to third parties. Appropriate measures shall be taken to ensure that employees, sub-contractors and representatives thereof are subject to the duty to treat data as confidential.

The duty to treat data as confidential and duty of data protection are lifted to the extent that Nagra has published the results in openly accessible documents and/or the signing company or person is obliged by the provisions of applicable law to comply with any mandatory disclosure.

The signatory party hereby declares his/her/its agreement with date and legally binding signature with the duty to treat data as confidential, this duty being unlimited in time.
